

RIDEAU CLUB

est. 1865

Sophisticated, luxurious, and steeped in history, the Rideau Club is the private gathering place for Ottawa's distinguished leaders of today, and aspiring leaders of tomorrow.

1865: The Rideau Club was founded to provide a respectable place to eat, drink and engage in a gentlemanly game of billiards or cards.

1875: The Club purchased 84 Wellington, a Victorian Clubhouse, from William Topley, a renowned photographer. The Club would stay at this location until 1979.

1983: The Club had purchased the 15th floor of 99 Bank Street with space totalling 27,696 square feet and an impressive view of Parliament.

1996: A wine education program was introduced and the first, house-labelled wines were offered.

2021: Club life at the Rideau Club continues to remain relevant today. Creating social interaction, opportunities to meet in person and enjoy the company of one's peers are timeless human qualities and so much more important in this age of technology where human interaction is dwindling.

Our historical Club offers a unique environment, captivating views, and associates that care for the Club and its Members.

We always look forward to delivering all your hospitality needs and worldwide quality wines, and as always, exceed your expectations!
